

College of Liberal Arts Graduate Faculty Membership Criteria

To be a member of the graduate faculty at UL Lafayette faculty must apply through the Graduate School website. Applications are routed to and concurrently and independently reviewed by the department head, academic dean, and the College's peer review committee, each of which makes a recommendation to the Graduate Council which makes a final determination. The submitted CV should include

- x Work from the past five years
- x Suggested activities can be found on the Graduate School website. For new candidates without experience working with graduate students, a discussion of their approach to mentoring can be substituted.

The following criteria apply to all College of Liberal Arts applicants, including continuing and adjunct faculty and researchers. For new

Achievement Categories

(Work must be in the discipline which the candidate wishes to perform graduate faculty activities)

Category:A

- x Authoring peer reviewed books or monographs published by academic presses or presses with an editorial board and a referee process
- x Authoring critical editions or articles published in refereed journals, invited scholarly book chapters, or equivalent peer reviewed publications; or where appropriate, writing or creating substantial artistic works that have been published or recognized by specialists in the field (e.g. film festivals, art shows)
- x Editing substantial scholarly collections, anthologies or journal issues through serving as editor-in-chief

Category:B

- x Evidence of extraordinary and exceptional success in mentorship. May include mentoring a higher than departmental number of students.